Ode To My Dearly Departed Wife

O Helen, radiant star of my heart, In the tapestry of life, you weave your art, Your laughter dances like sunlight on streams, A symphony of joy that ignites my dreams. With each tender glance, the world falls away, In your embrace, time stretches and sways. Your wisdom, a beacon that guides through the night, In your presence, all shadows dissolve into light. O Helen, cherished muse divine, In every moment, our souls entwine. O Helen, guardian of love's gentle flame, Your spirit a whisper that calls out my name. Amidst life's trials, you stand ever near, A fortress of strength against doubt and fear.
